Report-

In the 21st century, curriculum transaction is not only dependent upon the lecture method rather several other methods have been used to get an optimum outcome of learning. The use of drama and art in education leads to holistic learning accelerates personality development and imparts students with crucial life skills like problem-solving skills, leadership, and a spirit of cooperation and collaboration. The blend of Drama, Art, and Education has been there since the time of Plato. He believed that informing a student just about the concept is not enough, a good teacher has to induce the ability of critical thinking and the importance of value education in a student. Drama and Theatre both are pivotal outlets for self-expression and by using drama as a teaching tool, students are involved in every way, be it intellectually, physically, socially or emotionally.
